

Measurement

Interdisciplinary Research and Perspectives

Volume 9, Numbers 1-4, 2011

Volume 9, Number 1, 2011

FOCUS ARTICLE

- The Role of the Unit in Physics and Psychometrics 1
Stephen M. Humphry

COMMENTARIES

- A Commentary on "The Role of the Unit in Physics and Psychometrics"
by Stephen Humphry 25
David Andrich
- Invoking Arbitrary Units Is Not a Solution to the Problem of Quantification
in the Social Sciences 28
Paul Barrett
- The Emperor's New Measurement Model 32
Annemarie Zand Scholten, Gunter Maris, and Denny Borsboom
- "The Role of the Unit in Physics and Psychometrics": A Commentary 36
Timothy T. Dunne
- Person Response Functions and the Definition of Units in the Social Sciences 40
George Engelhard, Jr. and Aminah F. Perkins
- Stochastic and Historical Resonances of the Unit in Physics and Psychometrics 46
William P. Fisher, Jr.
- An Old Problem with a New Solution, Raising Classical Questions:
A Commentary on Humphry 51
Moritz Heene
- Psychological Measurement Needs Units, Ratios, and Real Quantities:
A Commentary on Humphry 55
Andrew Kyngdon
- "The Role of the Unit in Physics and Psychometrics" by Stephen Humphry—
One Small Step for the Rasch Model, but Possibly One Giant Leap for Measurement in the Social Sciences 59
Thomas Salzberger
- Can Psychometricians Learn to Think Like Physicists? 62
A. Jackson Stenner and Donald S. Burdick

REJOINDER

"The Role of the Unit in Physics and Psychometrics": Rejoinder

64

Stephen M. Humphry

Volume 9, Numbers 2-3, 2011

FOCUS ARTICLE

Road Maps for Learning: A Guide to the Navigation of Learning Progressions

71

Paul Black, Mark Wilson, and Shih-Ying Yao

COMMENTARIES

Learning Progressions That Support Formative Assessment Practices

124

Alicia C. Alonzo

Can Road Maps Tell Us Whether We Are Off Course?

130

Henry Braun

Road Maps for Learning: A Bird's Eye View

134

Timothy T. Dunne

An Ecological Perspective on Learning Progressions as Road Maps for Learning

138

George Engelhard, Jr. and Rubye K. Sullivan

Road Maps for Learning and Teacher Evaluation

146

Drew H. Gitomer

Commentary on Road Maps for Learning: A Guide to the Navigation of Learning Progressions

149

Margaret Heritage

It's Time for More Focus on Educator Involvement in Developing and Using Learning Progressions

152

Karin Hess

Learning Progressions Provide Road Maps for the Development and Validity of Assessments and Curriculum Materials

155

Joseph Krajcik

Partial Orders Cannot Be Measured

159

Andrew Kyngdon

Fulfilling the Promise of the Learning Triangle

163

Paul Nichols

Transferring Road Maps for Learning and Assessment Procedures to Marketing Thomas Salzberger	166
--	-----

REJOINDER

Comments and Thoughts Paul Black, Mark Wilson, and Shih-Ying Yao	169
--	-----

Volume 9, Number 4, 2011

FOCUS ARTICLE

Research on Data Use: A Framework and Analysis Cynthia E. Coburn and Erica O. Turner	173
--	-----

COMMENTARIES

The Role of Students in Data Use: Commentary on Coburn and Turner's Research on Data Use: A Framework and Analysis Laura S. Hamilton	207
--	-----

Talking Back to Data: Comments on a Framework for Data Use Aminah Perkins and George Engelhard Jr.	211
--	-----

Educational Data Use: A Sociotechnical Process Philip Piety	217
---	-----

Garbage In, Garbage Out: Having Useful Data Is Everything L. Todd Rose and Kurt W. Fischer	222
--	-----

REJOINDER

Putting the "Use" Back in Data Use: An Outsider's Contribution to the Measurement Community's Conversation About Data Cynthia E. Coburn and Erica O. Turner	227
--	-----